

Pre-Enrolment Homework for Spanish

To be a successful student of Spanish it is important to develop independent study and research skills. It is also crucial to be prepared to speak in class in order to practise and improve oral skills since the oral exam is worth 30% of the A Level mark.

Therefore we would like you to do a simple piece of research over the summer and present your work in Spanish to the class.

Choose a personality (historical, political, sporting, artistic etc.) from a country where Spanish is spoken and save a picture of them that you can project on to the screen.

Write out 10 pieces of information about that person in Spanish that you can read out to the class. Don't display your written work on the screen; we want the class to listen to you and not read what you have written from the screen.

N.B. Try to use your own words as much as possible; don't just copy and paste from Wikipedia!
