

Shrewsbury Colleges Group year 11 anatomy paper 1
Level 3 make up
Skin and hair anatomy

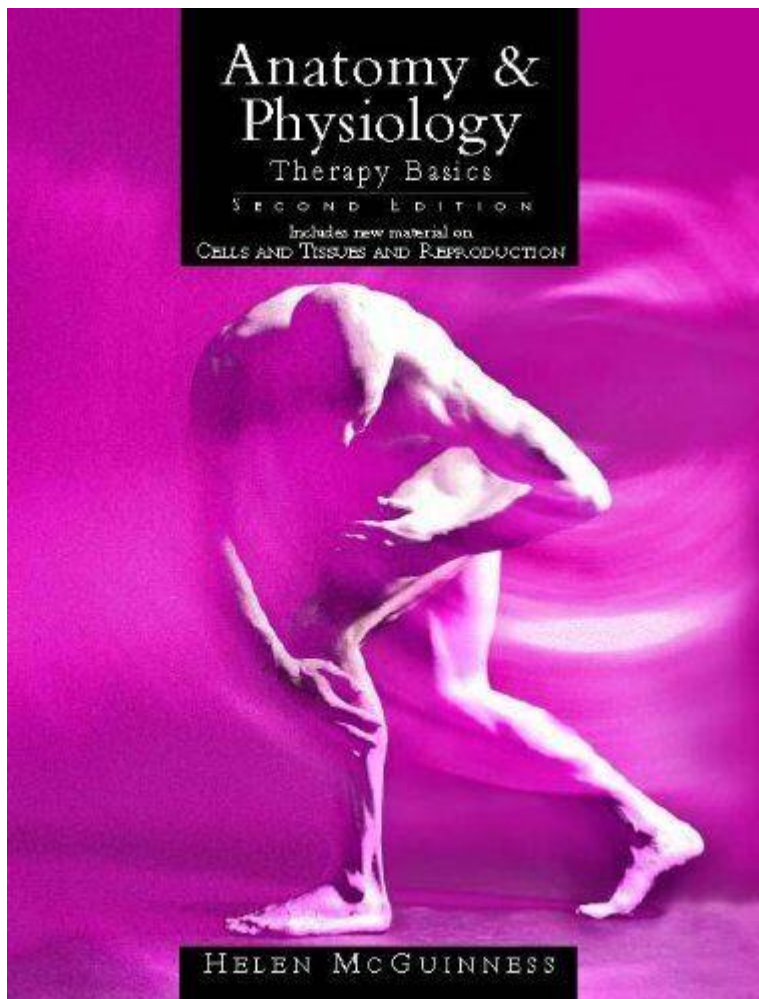

Please answer all questions fully and submit this in on the first day of college to your tutor.

To help you complete this task use any of the following;

Review the skin power point.

Research using the internet but check this information is correct before using it.

Suggested reading

Skin and hair anatomy.

1 List the names of the epidermis.

1A Draw the cross section of the epidermis.

1B In which layers of the skin are the cells alive?

1C In which layer of the skin does the cell start to die and why?

1D Explain desquamation.

2 Where is adipose tissue located and what is its function?

3 State the function of the skin

4 What muscle is responsible for goose bumps?

4B Explain heat regulation.

5 Where is sebum secreted?

6 What components forms the acid mantle?

7 Explain mitosis

8 Explain cell metabolism

9 What are the three stages of hair growth?

10 Explain the stages of hair growth

11 Draw and label the structure of the hair. This must include the root, shaft and bulb.

12 List the environmental factors which cause skin aging

13 Explain how to identify the following skin types

Oily skin

Dry skin

Normal skin

Dehydrated skin

Sensitive skin

14 What is the difference between dry and dehydrated skin?

15 Complete the chart below

Identify the type of moisturiser that is good for each skin type then identify the key ingredient within the product that helps that skin type and give a brief description of why it helps the skin type.

Useful link <https://www.nineteeneightzero.com/understanding-a-good-moisturizer-its-key-ingredients/>

Skin type	Moisturiser type	Key ingredients	Why does this ingredient help?
Oily
Dry
Dehydrated
Sensitive
Normal

Shrewsbury Colleges Group year 11 anatomy paper 1
Level 3 make up
Skin and hair anatomy